While the appeal petition was presented on 17.8.22 the appeal is in time.

The grounds of appeal are summarized in the petition.

As for the stay order, the reasons assigned are noted in detail in para 2 & 3 of the appeal petition. By the time of passing the order now appealed against, the Dy. Comr has taken into consideration all the grounds now urged (vide pages 2 & 3 of the Dy. Comr's order), and has directed that in consideration of the cost already incurred by the petitioner, he himself should refund to him Rs 3

The temple is the family temple of the appellants and all the lands mentioned in the are said to have been endowed with by the appellants' ancestors. The Dy Comr in his order appealed against says that a sum of Rs 25000 for renovation & conveyance of the Further there are several instances in the mahal itself where long leases of temple lands extending upto 20 or 30 years have been granted. The appellant has further been appointed the Sole Dharmakarta of the temple.

In these circumstances the case seems to be one fit for stay of execution of proceedings pending the final decision of the appeal now filed &.

The grant of a permanent lease is out of the question. The Act has provided a lease for ten years. Whether this period should be extended may be considered.

Appellant has been called upon to pay Rs. 31 odd as reserve fund with effect from Fy 21-22 and he can deposit the same under protest.

As for stay of the D.C's order requiring the stay of execution seems to be called for.
